Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Saturday 10 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cold, bright, mostly dry Sunday. Wintry showers, mainly in north.

This Evening and Tonight:
Scattered wintry showers continuing in the north overnight. Also some light sleet and snow showers will linger over Southern Uplands during first part of tonight. Otherwise dry with long clear periods and a widespread sharp frost.

Sunday:
A sunny, frosty start to the day then clouds bubbling up. Scattered wintry showers in the north with a few showers breaking out further south in the afternoon.

Outlook for Monday to Wednesday:
Some patchy rain in the west on Tuesday, otherwise a lot of dry, bright weather with a few showers. Turning a little milder but still a frost risk at nights.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.